Consulting & Coaching Synergy

International coaching & consulting company for individual- and corporate development
Stuttgart, Germany

«It is our passion to see you even more successful than you are to date.»

«Consulting is a continuous process which starts by analysis and clarification.»

Personal Branding – unique as YOU are!

What it takes to do what you are doing is known. What people would like to know – certainly – is somewhat different.

Who you are? What's inside yourself. What makes you moving and why. Your motive, your drive. What are you feeling. Your emotion. What makes up your personality, your unique charisma.

It is mood, it is inspiration making persons to give their very best. Charisma is the reason for feeling inspired. Charisma motivates people to top performance; charisma gives perspective – even in difficult times.

We are specialists for Top Management Coaching and talking on our own behalf as entrepreneurs. We know:

It is the “being the BRAND”, it is adequate communication and relation management in your role as entrepreneur, top-manager, partner, board member.

It is a matter of reputation inside and outside your company, it is your authority, credibility, influence.

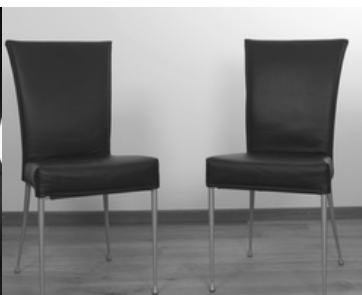

It is a matter to motivate your people. For the company success. For the realisation of your personal concerns, your personal ethic and values.

Personal Branding has a great effect. It brings to light something what you already have inside yourself: Your aura, your charisma - your unique personality.

Holistic-integrative Corporate Branding - unique as your COMPANY is!

Entrepreneurs know the tremendous effect on success which can only be caused by the identification of their employees with company vision and corporate identity.

Beyond that holistic-integrative Corporate Branding communicates mutual values linking both the employer and his employees thus creating a working atmosphere where people catch the unique chance to realize their full potential and ambition.

Health Management–Get inside your dream!

Tell us what you need. And why you didn't get it till now. Take care of feeling happy as main drive enabling you to realize your dreams both professional and private. We help you with that.

We believe that the personal attitude towards the own health is influenced considerably by vitality, self-determination and feelings like belonging to and being arrived. Moreover, since a long time the context between personal happiness and extra-ordinary professional success is known very well.

Based on the Saluto Genese hypothesis we are going to find out the burdening views which determine your life. Your own resources, the change of perspective will show you the exit away from distress, workaholic-behaviour as compensation of true satisfaction, dangerous beliefs, needless obligations but also boredom, routine and in a long-term view development of a Chronic Burnout-Crisis.

We know that it is especially the highly motivated person who runs the risk to develop a Burnout-Crisis. It is the person – excellent educated and ambitious - who entered once unhealthy living- and working conditions and who is now convinced not being able to leave these fatal involvements.

Don't allow your mind to break the spirit of your soul!

It depends on you to create your life according to your vision and idea – it is even you who is responsible for that. It is your personal attitude which makes you taking up professional challenges in a reasonable healthy way and also surviving disappointments. You give the way to a meaningful, sensitive and sensual private life.

QuoVadis? in context to health management means both – being satisfied in your professional and private life, caring and making happy others and consequently Burnout-Prevention.

«We believe that today nobody is able to compete successfully in international markets without rational and emotional-intuitive perception, awareness and action».

Business Consulting (Arab countries)

Gateway to Success

Success stories talk about how to make the right decisions at the right time, how to employ engaged and competent people, how to establish an excellent networking as well as an efficient relation management.

Visions come true under such conditions.

Globalization must be understood as a challenge to entrepreneurs and their management teams. Today, internationally based target groups and a never-known competition demand tailor-made strategies and concepts to convince the potential client. Past success stories suddenly do not have any value - sticking to them often enough result directly into crisis.

Did you ever thought about expanding your business to the Arab market? If you are interested CCS offers over 30 years consulting experience in establishing contacts to decision makers going along with studies about market chances and future development prognosis.

Within the scope of the Engcotec business activities we are specialised in feasibility studies on critical economic, technical and organizational issues of solar projects in Arab countries. We co-operate closely with global project partners like M & W Zander, international experts for technology-based issues in the photovoltaic segment and Fraunhofer Germany, international institute for applied research thus giving utmost planning security to the potential investor prior to his final decision.

Intercultural Coaching (Arab countries)

Intercultural Coaching takes into consideration first your individual cultural identity. Realizing the relativity of own rules and values is regarded to be the most important condition to become aware that strangeness needs to be accepted as different but equal to the own conviction.
